Sleeping, waking, bathing... we want to live according to our own daily life rhythms.

This educational offering is for nurses who believe that residents should be able to continue to direct their own lives while living in a nursing home. Changing nursing systems from the traditional nursing home model to a resident-directed model benefits not only residents, but also the people that provide care.

PURPOSE OF THIS WORKSHOP:

To prepare nurses to be effective leaders in a Culture Change community

LED BY MARILYN OELFKE, RN, BS

Marilyn Oelfke, one of the early nurse pioneers in Culture Change, will share strategies and processes that she developed in her own practice at Perham Care in Perham, MN, where she oversaw the transformation from institution to households. Perham has become a national example of the power of households on quality care. Read her article "Household Model's Impact on Quality of Care Impresses," in Culture Change Now, Special Household Model Edition, available in the Action Pact web store. www.actionpact.com
